1-31-12 sturgeon spearing

DNR biologists are expecting a record number of spearers on the ice when the state's annual sturgeon season gets underway next month on the Lake Winnebago system. DNR officials say a record 12,680 bought licenses…up from the previous record of 12,423 set last year. DNR Fisheries supervisor Ron Bruch tells WFDL news the prospects look good. "The sturgeon population in the Winnebago system is probably at as high a level as its been since the late 1800s," Bruch said. "Lots of fish, there's really lots of nice big fish. We're seeing fish regularly that are over 200 pounds in our surveys." The agency raised harvest caps for adult females on Lake Winnebago from 711 last year to 745 this time around. The agency also raised harvest limits on upriver lakes from 79 to 83. Bruch says people will still have to be very careful when venturing out onto the lake. He says the ice conditions are variable...but improving. The season begins February 11th and will run through February 26th or until spearers reach the harvest caps.

1-31-12 ballweg-jobs

ARepbulican state representative from Markesan says she is convinced the state is doing the right thing to create jobs…even though the state has lost private sector jobs for six straight months. State representative Joan Ballweg says the state economy is doing better since governor Walker took office. Democrats argue the big job losses occurred during the height of the recession and that Wisconsin's recovery in the last year has been slower than neighboring states.

residence and entering her home while she was gone. Police stepped up enforcement in the area and continued to locate footprints coming to and from the residence. MacNeill says at one point, authorities set up a small outdoor surveillance camera in an effort to identify the suspect, however, the suspect apparently spotted the camera and stole it. On Friday night, an officer patrolling the area observed a vehicle parked on a street behind the woman's residence, with footprints leading from the vehicle to the house. The officer made contact with an upstairs tenant who stated they had heard noises coming from below. Officers entered the residence and took the 27 year old man into custody without incident. The man was jailed on charges of stalking and burglary. Additional charges are pending.

1-31-12 fdl county sheriff's department law of the month

This time of year, law enforcement officers, tow truck operators and emergency responders are busy working on the side of highways to rescue motorists and remove vehicles that have slid off icy roads or into other vehicles. Although the frigid conditions test their resolve, the greatest danger these workers face is being hit by vehicles traveling at high speeds just a few feet away. To protect law enforcement officers, tow truck operators, emergency responders, road maintenance workers, and others who work on the side of roadways, Wisconsin has a Move Over Law. The law requires drivers to shift lanes if possible or slowdown in order to create a safety zone for a law enforcement vehicle, ambulance, fire truck, tow truck or highway maintenance vehicle that is stopped or parked on the side of a road with its warning lights flashing. To create a safety zone on interstate highways and other divided roads with multiple directional lanes, you must move over to vacate the lane closest to the law enforcement or other emergency vehicle if you can safely switch lanes. If the road has a single directional lane or you can't safely move over because of traffic, you must reduce your speed until safely past the vehicle. Violating the Move Over Law can be expensive as well as dangerous. Acitation costs $263.50 with three demerit points added to your license (Wis. Stats. 346.072). When drivers disregard the Move Over Law, they are putting lives at risk. Failure of motorists to create a safety zone by moving over or slowing down is one of the major reasons that motor vehicle crashes kill more law enforcement officers on duty than any other cause. Tow truck operators, highway maintenance workers and emergency responders also are killed and injured when drivers don't move over or slow down. By obeying the Move Over Law, drivers can protect themselves, their passengers, our officers and others who work on highways from needless injuries and deaths. Have ASafe Month,

Sheriff Mick Fink
